

Where can offshore wind farms be built?

- The capacity factor is essential when deciding where to build a wind farm. It's calculated by dividing the energy produced by what it could produce if it operated all the time at maximum power.
- Floating wind farms have a higher CAPEX than fixed-bottom ones, which is why they are installed in areas with capacity factors not much lower than 50%.