

Oil demand change forecast thanks to transition to electric vehicles

Million barrels per day (mb/d)

■ Road transport oil demand ■ Avoided oil demand from EVs

This forecast from the IEA is made under their Stated Policies Scenario (STEPS), which is a model the organisation has developed to provide a baseline view of how global energy systems might evolve if governments continue with their currently announced and implemented policy commitments, without additional or more ambitious measures to address climate change.

Source: International Energy Agency (IEA)